Traditional computed tomography, magnetic resonance imaging, and even bioluminescence and fluorescence imaging (bioluminescence and fluorescence) systems used in imaging technology require a form of contact between an imaging object and a sensing device. As a result, imaging technology systems typically require movement of the subject to change or otherwise move the sensing device with respect to the subject. Therefore, a contact sensing system that may overcome this drawback would be desirable. Menu Puerto Rico's Poorest Hold More Public Financial Resources than the US Puerto Ricans hold 12 percent of total public financial assets at the country's poorest municipalities, surpassing the 9 percent poverty rate set for the Commonwealth, according to a new report by an independent group. Puerto Rico has been under the oversight of a bankruptcy trustee since June 2016 following a series of public debt defaults. Puerto Rico's Personal & Public Financial Institutions Research Team estimated that the poorest municipalities have public financial assets totaling $9.7 billion, while the wealthiest municipality in Puerto Rico, the municipality of Toa Alta, holds $10 billion. "This is the result of processes that started long before Hurricane Maria and continue to affect the quality of our lives to this day," the report said. Puerto Ricans have struggled to recover from Hurricane Maria, which devastated the island in September 2017. The report estimates that at least $41 billion are needed to 570a42141b
