Microscopic perirenal and periureteral lymphovascular invasion was present, and tumor cells had spread to the renal sinus and perinephric adipose tissue. The literature was reviewed, and only four cases were identified in which LGFMS presented as perinephric or retroperitoneal tumor with either local (n = 2) or distant (n = 2) invasion. Immunohistochemical studies showed diffuse staining for vimentin. Importantly, the majority of cases reported were characterized by a biphasic pattern with islands of myofibroblastic spindle cells surrounded by a collagenized, myxoid stroma. The neoplastic cells in our case demonstrated a similar presentation. Our findings support the previously mentioned biphasic histologic pattern, along with their propensity for perinephric, retroperitoneal Occ13bf012
